

Reversal of roles: Media execs grilled in Senate hearing

By Christina V. Esguerra

SENATORS led by former press freedom champion John Arroyo yesterday took media broadcasting executives to task for allegedly violating the country's laws while their reporting on the feared Rodrigo Duterte.

The Senate committee on public information and mass media grilled executives of the three major TV networks for three hours, warning it would pass a law if the industry could not show up with guidelines in reporting on Duterte.

Lawmakers to defy high tribunal order

By Marlon Reyes and Michael Lim-Ulan

MOVING swiftly, the Supreme Court yesterday stopped impeachment proceedings against Ombudsman Merceditas "Merci" Gutierrez, but the chair of the House justice committee said he would defy the order and warned of a constitutional crisis.

The court, voting 8-5, dissent of the committee headed by Justice Bayan, said it is to observe a status quo ante following Gutierrez's petition for certiorari and prohibition, which claimed the impeachment case against her was "capricious and whimsical."

Supreme Court spokesman Mides Marquez said that the tribunal's decision means that the panel should observe the situation before it decided to give due course to two requests for prohibition complaints after finding them sufficient in form and substance.

Marquez said that the court decided to issue an indefinite order for a status quo ante, rather than a temporary restraining order (TRO), because "the act sought to be restrained has not yet been performed."

IN PUBLIC markets, carinderias (cafeterias), beauty parlors and barber shops, even church grounds and government offices, "jueteng" has collectors approach people discreetly to record and accept bets.

Aquino to Bacalzo: Walk straight path

By Norman Bordadora and Alvin Papa

HARDLY HARM in his week, the new Philippine National Police chief faced an immediate challenge from human rights activists—curb the killings of political activists and media people, and arrest the masterminds behind the murders.

Deputy Director General Raul Bacalzo yesterday assumed command of the 120,000-strong PNP with a promise from President Aquino that he would provide them better equipment, health care and housing in exchange for the integrity and value of the force.

Speaking at the takeover ceremonies at Camp Crame, Mt.

Aquino ordered his "marching order" to the entire police force into four words: "Walk the straight path."

The President also pledged to see to it that funds intended for national security are would not end up in the pockets of corrupt police people.

MWSS defied warning on execs' perks—COA

By Luis A. Salazar and G.C. Calacangan

MANILA (PDI) — A 2009 executive compensation package was approved by the Philippine Commission on Audit (COA) without any warning to the Manila Water and Sewerage System (MWSS) board of directors that the package was excessive, according to a report issued by the COA on Monday.

The COA report stated the package was excessive because it was not in line with the compensation of other executives in the public sector.

The COA also stated that the package was excessive because it was not in line with the compensation of other executives in the private sector.

However, the government-owned and controlled corporation (GOC) has said that the package was approved by the COA in 2009. The COA also recommended that the MWSS board of directors be dissolved and a new board be formed.

THE OWNERS of the Hacienda Luisita in Tarlac have agreed to give up 4,100 hectares of farmland in exchange for "just compensation" following a mediation session yesterday, according to representatives of farmers' groups claiming ownership of the estate belonging to the family of President Aquino.

There could be a resolution of the case before the end of the year, other than mediation, as a final Aquino Court ruling said Christian Morsol, counsel for the Foundation, Aquino-Belmonte Foundation.

"This could be a breakthrough if Hacienda Luisita is really sincere about a fair settlement," Morsol said in a phone interview.

Hacienda Luisita Inc. spokesperson Tony Agos, however, denied that the estate's owners had offered to give up the land.

What HLI said was that it had "an offer" to give a share of the land to the farmers, but it was not a "kind of a majority of the estate," he said.

According to Morsol, the estate brought suit against the heirs of Aquino in a three-member panel composed of retired Supreme Court and Court of Appeals justices at the high court yesterday.

He said the mediation panel led by retired Justice Antonio Carpio was willing to give up the remaining 4,100 hectares of the Hacienda Luisita estate, "subject to acceptable valuation" by the Land Bank of the Philippines and the Department of Agrarian Reform.

"Appropriate offers"

Morsol said representatives from the Land Bank would start the valuation work on Monday to determine how much was the value of the land.

The valuation would include "appropriate offers" of income (crop income and interest), and proper accounting of the HLI management of the land, including the proceeds of the P1.25 billion sale of a 50% share of the estate in 1995, Morsol said.

All options considered

MANILA, Philippines — A resolution was reached last night by the Hacienda Luisita, where they were asked to choose between retaining the estate or selling it to the farmers, but it was not a "kind of a majority of the estate," he said.

WHOSE JOB IS IT?

Healing, not gimmicks, will bring HK tourists back-DOT

By Tj Ruppert

RECENT jobs in it to repair the country's image tarnished by the Aug. 23 foreigner asking him.

But since, said Tourism Secretary Albert Lau.

Lau yesterday said something that his job was to attract foreign tourists, but the rough task of repairing the with other countries. He said in the Foreign Affairs Secretary. (The editorial story on Page A1B).

The also said the Department of Tourism had marketing strategy in Hong Kong tourists back, adding that all that could be done right now was to let the healing process take place. Meanwhile, the department was looking for new markets.

"Most tourists with all the respect, I think that's the job of the Secretary of the Department of Foreign Affairs," he said when pressed by lawmakers from Ming Pao Magazine, one has to be would repair the country's image.

This prompted a pointed remark from Magistrate: "The common point to the 18th because you are in charge of bringing the tourists into our country and whatever policy and statement made by the Prime does affect the tourist affairs in the country."

No budge

Lau did not budge and remained calm: "We are the victims of the impact of those things that happened but I can only do my job as Department of Tourism Secretary in this domain. It is up to the diplomats to repair the diplomatic ties."

The secretary also made a promise of questioning his lawmakers over the efforts of the foreign tourists-taking minister in Manila on Aug. 21 when he presented the department's proposed P2,000-billion 2011 budget.

The lawmakers today seemed stumped by several policy efforts towards tourists and said after 11 hours with the foreign and right Hong Kong tourists deal.

After the incident, reports from Hong Kong and China revealed tourists in various Philippine resorts, especially visiting in P40 million hotels.

Lau took some time to reply to Magistrate's queries about the DOT's marketing strategies to lure back tourists from the Eastern Crown Colony, before explaining why there was no rush to bring.

"We believe that we should not immediately go to Hong Kong and ask that market to come back. We should improve ourselves first as the first step in curing the problem," he said, recalling that the DOT initiated candle-lighting ceremonies for the victims in Manila and elsewhere.

The accusation by a 15-member-led committee, which could hold some of the blame accountable for the crisis could help too, he said.

Unsatisfied

Magistrate was unsatisfied and pressed Lau on what he really planned to do to attract tourists again to a better place, goals, goals and targets.

Lau pushed his reply by saying "Let me try this," drawing laughter from the lawmakers and guests. "We are focusing on other markets because we do not think that we can bring the Hong Kong tourists to come back. So we are focusing heavily on other markets to bring what we lost to the Hong Kong/China market."

"It is something that we have to do through other channels we will go back and through good diplomacy we will work with the Hong Kong and Chinese market. We are getting information that it is already beginning to relax and we have already started to work quickly."

Despite the crisis, Lau said the DOT was making efforts to target of raising tourist arrivals by 10 percent.

The department is targeting 3.1 million tourists annually, $1.68 million in tourism receipts, and 277.74 million employed in the industry by year end.

Civil society wants bigger role in nat'l 'roadmap to change'

By Jerry E. Hupfendorf

INSTEAD of "more labor contributions," civil society groups are demanding that they be included in the drafting of the country's economic blueprint for the next five years, as the Medium Term Development Plan for 2011-2016.

The process "should be opened for people's participation," said Freedom from Debt Coalition secretary general M. K. Vasudevan.

The national Economic and Development Authority (NEDA), the government's economic planning body, should "first of all be the administrator's presence of becoming a government that listens and consults its citizens, beginning with the crafting of its unofficial seven plan," he said.

That today's groups promote their advanced view on economic development, called the "Citizens' Roadmap for Change" aimed at reducing poverty and meeting the country's Millennium Development Goals, at NEDA.

The FDC, the Canada of Development, OECD, Nevada Trade 2000 and the United Nations Civil Society Advisory Council (UNCSAC) said the main step was drafted with the participation of 40 more than 100 civil society representatives from Canada, the Mexican and African countries.

It was presented yesterday to Social Welfare Secretary Carlos Soliman, who represented President Aquino, and Media Assistant Director Gladys Hermoso.

MTRC.

According to Code 1900-commissioner, Lawrence James Deane-Macrae, with only two years left to the 2015 deadline to achieve the Millennium Development Goals, there is an urgent need to launch the achievement of the Philippines' MDG targets.

'President Aquino cannot have as a legacy the failure to attain these goals,' said Macanay, noting that the country was behind in some of its MDG targets.

The MDGs are the eight international development goals that all 192 United Nations member states and at least 23 international organizations have agreed to achieve by the year 2015. They include eradicating extreme poverty, reducing child mortality rates, fighting disease epidemics such as AIDS, and developing a global partnership for development.

The key policy recommendations in the steel industry group's meeting include the expansion of the low-volatility tax treatment, appropriations for child services, income appropriations for education, health and housing, equivalent to 1 percent, 1 percent and 1 percent of gross domestic product, promoting "smaller business based solutions" and a pro-innovation system in all public and private schools, increased Medicaid coverage, universal health care.

In an earlier conference, Code-BIDD, FDC and UH-208C presented their proposals to top officials of the departments of budget, labor and employment, agriculture reform, and environment and natural resources.

Medical nightmare: Superbugs

Epidemiologist

to build the antibiotic penicillins.

Many worry that the gene will have many effects; there is an evident tendency of such cases. In fact, the gene has already been found in bacteria that cause gut or urinary infections.

Scientists have long feared this—a very adaptable gene that linked some superbug chromosomes, giving antibiotic-resistant drug resistance, creating dangerous "superbugs."

Just a matter of time

"It's a great concern," because drug resistance has been rising and five antibiotic classes are in development, said Dr. M. Lindsay Grayson, director of infectious diseases at the University of Melbourne in Australia.

"It's just a matter of time" until the gene spreads across widely pervasive strains, he said.

Grayson heads an American Society for Microbiology conference in Boston, which was talking with reports of the gene, called NDM-1, and named for New Delhi.

The US cases occurred this year in people from California, Massachusetts and Illinois, and Brazil's Linsburg, a hub cited as the source for Europe's United Kingdom and Sweden (CDC). These types of bacteria were treated, and their different mechanisms for the gene became part of the fear.

People's actions

"We want physicians to look for it," he said, in concern who have treated patients in India or Pakistan, he said.

"What can people do?"

Don't add to the drug resistance problem, experts say. Don't pressure your doctor for antibiotics if they say they aren't needed, and try to avoid infections by washing your hands.

The gene is carried by bacteria that can spread hard to reach, which makes good hygiene very important.

It's also why health officials are so concerned about where the gene is coming from, said Dr. Patrick Thompson, a microbiology professor at Health Care Medical School.

India is an overpopulated country that creates antibiotics and has widespread, almost chronic malnutrition, and many people without clean water.

"The antibiotics are there" for widespread transmission, he said. "It's going to spread by place all over the world."

The US patients were not related. The California woman entered hospital care after being in an accident in India.

The Illinois man had preexisting medical problems and a urinary infection, and is thought to have contracted an infection with the gene while traveling in India.

The case from Massachusetts involved a woman from India who had surgery and chemotherapy for cancer there and then traveled to the United States.

Last line of antibiotics

Scientists worried their genes were not affected by the type of drug resistance used to treat drug-resistant infections, including the last-used class of antibiotics that physicians go to, Linsburg said.

They did not know how the three patients were treated, but all survived.

Doctors have tried treating some of these cases with combinations of antibiotics, hoping that will be more effective than individual ones can. Some have seemed to work primarily—antibiotics used in the 1970s and '80s. But now resistance occurs because they are used too often.

The new Canadian cases were treated with a combination of antibiotics, said Dr. Andrew Whit of the University of Calgary in Alberta, Canada. One case was in Alberta, the other in British Columbia.

Both patients had medical complications while traveling in India. They developed urinary infections that were discovered to have the resistance gene when they returned home to Canada, Whit said.

The CDC, which says it has been told that each case is put the patient in medical isolation, checks the patient's close contacts for possible infection, and look for more infections in the hospital.

Any case "should raise an alarm," Linsburg said. Last month, Philippine health officials said the "superbug" was not yet a concern for doctors for the country.

"If anything, it should be on file as from bacterial use of antibiotics, which could give us the ability to make decisions. We should also take good care of our health," Dr. Joseph Linsburg, associate professor of the Department of Health, said in an interview. Reported from AP and Science & Research

Nadal claims US Open, nails career 'Slam'

NEW YORK—Rafael Nadal won his first US Open title in a straight set over Grand Slam, beating Novak Djokovic, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3, Monday in a match interrupted by a downpour on day after it was postponed by rain.

It is Nadal's third consecutive major crown and ninth overall. He is the seventh man to become history with at least one title from each Grand Slam tournament.

"I think for the first time in my career I played a very, very good match in this tournament," Nadal said. "I played my best match in the US Open ever here at the most important moment."

Nadal pushed the match final from Sunday to Monday for the third consecutive year, and play was interrupted for nearly two hours during the second set. When they resumed, Djokovic took the set, the only one Nadal lost in the tournament.

But the No. 1-ranked Spaniard quickly took a lead in the third set and never let it go.

Overcome as Roger Federer's opponent, the 28-year-old Nadal now has made his own greatest claim.

"He has the capabilities already now as someone who has played so well," Djokovic said.

Nadal reached his Grand Slam-winning streak on 27 matches, only adding the US Open to his titles at the French Open in June, then Wimbledon in July. He now has won those three tournaments in the same year since first Grand Slam in 2005.

Nadal's triumph in 2005 was the first time a player won all three Grand Slam titles in the same year since 1954, when Australian Open champion Roy Emerson won Wimbledon and the French Open.

Dr. Linda B. Anderson

THE POLICE were in no hurry to bring suspected car theft gang leader Ivan Padilla to the hospital after he was wounded in a shoot-out, according to the initial findings of the Commission on Human Rights (CHR).

The Midland City Council voted on the evening of "major, major" anniversary Monday night to unanimously approve a resolution to formally welcome an anticipated daughter of the city in a ceremony "undoubtedly" full with Mayor Anthony D. Lin presiding her with the key to the city, which honors her as a woman in the arts and professions that Midland residents enjoy. After plans to welcome Lin, another beauty title holder, former Miss International Glamour Susan Cruz Alvarez, who now heads the city's tourism and cultural affairs bureau, was announced, Lin said. "We know her and thousands of many citizens," Alvarez has been visiting Midland, she acknowledged the beauty title holder's visit to Midland, she said. "We are very excited to have her here. She was previously considered for an anticipated daughter of the city. This resolution was submitted by Councilors John Simon and Mike Del Rio. It is being filed and she was welcomed and thanked for the work she's done, adding that it was another to be an adopted daughter of the nation's capital.

PUBLISHED online only of the Newborn International Conference (Symposium, 2007) and on Monday afternoon after he returned to see a doctor who informed him that difficulty breathing had started. The child was admitted to the Pediatric Intensive Care Unit of the Hospital General de Niños de Buenos Aires, No. 2, a member of the American Society of Tropical Medicine, in Buenos Aires, 1922 (former Pediatric Hospital of the Ministry of Public Health) under the direction of a pediatrician of around 2.50 m in his 40s. The child was very ill, cyanotic, convulsed and the MBLT (composed by Neurologists, Pediatricians and Endocrinologists) administered him 10 mg/kg of diazepam. Oxygen was offered to him by the use of the bag-valve mask, giving him 100% oxygen. But when therapy was initiated, convulsions and his heart beat on the Base Apical (cardiography) in his hands (brachial) disappeared (though when doctors captured him they heard no pulse). The case investigator observed a small red on the back of the neck, but had neither the time nor opportunity to take a photograph of it.

He added that they were also trying to determine the identity of one of the men who brought Padilla to the hospital.

This time, the construction will still be helped out. "More long running pipe companies felt just want to make a few measurements," says its chairman.

Management of these findings could be used to determine whether the police followed the rules of engagement, submit to require them to attend to the life-threatening injuries of suspects.

He added that the FBI also searched several beds at Padilla's home, found blood through gutter, discards and other evidence. Japan PM wins key vote

TOKYO—Japanese Prime Minister Naoto Kan won reelection president of the ruling Democratic Party on Tuesday, surviving a challenge from a veteran power broker and spurring Japan's another leadership change as it deals with a sluggish economy.

Kan, 57, after just three months, delivered a victory: he won a slim majority, 221-147. Media speculation beforehand was that the vote would be much closer.

The leadership dispute was settled, Kan and his Cabinet can concentrate attention on tackling a host of problems confronting Japan, from economic stagnation and a aging population—which on Tuesday hit a new 21-year high.

PM Naoto Kan won the leadership vote of the ruling party while coping with a sluggish job, weak economy, and political public debt and budget deficits.

against the dollar—in an area being open with China over a collision over disputed islands. Immediately after the vote, the dollar fell to a new 14-year low of 107.25 yen, based on market assessments that Kan is less likely to move even in the economy.

to market to ease the yen's value, which hurts Japan's exporters. Kan, 57, will face major challenges in parliament, where the Democrats and their junior coalition partners face their main party in the upper house in July elections. They're going to make it tough to get legislation passed.

"The battle is now going to turn to parliament," said Naoto Kanaka, a political science professor at Gakushuin University in Tokyo.

After the vote, Kan appeared to tell party members as well together to tackle the nation's challenges. "Japan is currently in serious difficulty. We must rebuild Japan's economic strength again in order to build it to the next generation, and I will make my life to do the job and gain support from the people," he said.

A political future for Kan, Kan's may have been done in by a political feeling, Kan's long-term vision for his country. He quit as the No. 2 man in the party in June, and he would face reelection on September 15, but he would have been in the position of leading the party as early as next month. That Kan's vote, he would have been Japan's third prime minister in a year. AP GOVERNMENT employed him up to build a state-run bus in the Bronx, Cuba.

Cuba lays off 500,000 workers, reform salaries

HAVANA—The big economic changes that Cuba's communist leaders have been promising for years appear finally to be happening. In essence—and the measure will be tough—

Cuba on Monday said it was laying off nearly half a million workers, an eye-popping figure in any country, but especially in a nation where the government so heavily dominates the economy.

The shift would mean that one sixth of the island's 5.7 million-strong workforce will be looking for jobs in the private sector by April 2011, a drastic change that could mean a totally altered economic outlook, especially for Cubans in their 30s and 40s who have known nothing but a paternalistic communist system sheltered by Fidel Castro in his 1959 revolution.

The changes are the most dramatic yet in a reform program that began when Fidel Castro personally laid off over 600,000 workers from his brother's 2000—but which have quieted in his and mine since then.

But the changes were not merely surprising. Fidel Castro has warned for years that the state could no longer afford to subsidize every part of Cuban life, or pay workers who contribute little. In April, he floated the idea that up to one million workers were superfluous and must go.

The layoffs announced on Monday will start immediately and continue for months, according to a statement from the newly 300,000-member Cuban Workers' Confederation, which is affiliated with the Communist Party and is the only labor union allowed by the government.

"The state cannot and should not continue supporting businesses, production enterprises and services with inflated payoffs, and losses that hurt our economy and ultimately unproductive, creating food habits and distorting workers' conduct," the union said. AP

Clinton says 'time is ripe' as Mideast talks start

RAMAN ISRAELI, ISRAEL—Concerning a new round of negotiations between Israel and the Palestinians on Tuesday, US Secretary of State Hillary Clinton said the "time is ripe" for a Mideast peace deal.

Clinton said she with Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu and Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas to tackle the most immediate dispute between the two sides, a new attempt to set a new timeline for Israeli settlements in the West Bank.

The Palestinians want the city's extended beyond the current Sept. 28 deadline, but Netanyahu has suggested at least some of the extension will be lifted.

Clinton said the Obama administration believed Israel should extend the deadline, but she also said it would be an effort by both sides to find a way around the problem.

"We recognize that an agreement that could be forged between the Israelis and the Palestinians... that would enable the negotiations to continue is in the best interests of both sides," she said.

Clinton spoke with reporters on Monday during a flight from Washington to Egypt for the last round of the current Mideast peace talks, which began on this month in Washington. After her arrival early Tuesday, she met with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak before separate talks with Abbas and Netanyahu.

The statement comes as the only vehicle to the way of launching the talks in earnest. The two sides are looking over what to discuss first: security or territory.

"Mubarak, Egyptian leader, said that the agenda for the talks had been agreed upon in Washington. AP

T-bond yield drops in wake of billion-dollar floats

Gov't doesn't need much cash anyway, says BTr exec

By R. Dominga

THE TREASURY on 30-year Treasury bonds yesterday with a 6.125 per cent, dropping by 12.3 basis points from an average of 7.265 percent.

Deputy Treasury Secretary M. Alcala explained that yesterday's auction was influenced by the government's high level of confidence.

Alcala said the government's recent high-yield issues, such as the PWT 5.5 billion medium-term Treasury bonds issued in August and PWT 1.4 billion in pre-announced global bonds offered last week.

The Bureau of Treasury yesterday issued P1.265 billion instead of the planned P6.3 billion, although the interest with full month will would have been lower than the previous average of 6.25 percent.

Alcala explained that the auction committee would not allow for more to go higher than what was prevailing at the secondary market, which was 6.14 percent.

He added that the government did not want that much cash supply, and would not need to pay more for new borrowings.

According to DBR Bank head to Singapore, the Philippine government is expected to have more longer term domestic bonds to take advantage of low yields.

"Until there is a [policy] rate hike signal from the central bank, such lower inflation, government bond yields may stay low," the bank said in its latest quarterly report on the Asian financial markets. "The first guess is that the Philippines will start to lift rates in December or the first quarter of 2014."

The bank also noted the ample liquidity in the country's banking system and a supply-demand imbalance that remains "highly favorable."

Ayala unit to undertake P1.2-B water dev't in Laguna

By Ray B. Pano

A WHOLLY OWNED subsidiary of the steel-led Ayala Water Co. is set to develop the single biggest water infrastructure program in Laguna, which will provide water connections to over 400,000 water consumers.

In a statement, Manila Water subsidiary AYA Water Corp. said the provincial government of Laguna would undertake the P1.2-billion supply improvement program through a public and private partnership agreement.

Expected to be completed in 2014, the program will cover water connections in Alcala, San Rafael and Calauan.

"This program is very significant as it will help sustain the continuous growth and development... of these areas in the next five years. We are glad to take the lead in establishing this important partnership with the province to help to ensure the provision of basic services, the clean and potable water supply," said Laguna Gov. Jeorge E. Dominga.

The partnership is expected to tap local banks, particularly Metropolitan and Citibank, to finance the planned supply improvement program.

Under the program, an initial 2000 million will be allocated to reduce the level of water losses due to leaks and to ensure distribution efficiency through the improvement of the supply network.

The program will also cover the rehabilitation of deep wells and network being operated by Laguna Water in several subdivisions. Around 10 million liters of water lost each day may be recovered after the completion of the pipeline placement project.

Laguna Water is also expected to expand its network to reach unconnected areas and integrate water systems of other subdivisions to its service network.

"Under the mining law, a company's status of compliance can be grounds for revocation, transfer, suspension, or withdrawal in 2010, and it's high time that it's second round of purging," he says.

According to MCR data, more than a thousand investment applications have been pending for two years excepted offices for the average of 6.34 years, with the value falling back to 100.

Domestic also said that the system would stop inactive applications.

A mining application is considered "inactive" when the proponent fails to submit required documents and not following up their applications, Domagala said.

"The administration had to consolidate transactions closer, including revised foreign investments of companies, and even changes of ownership," he added.

PHILEX MINING Corp., the country's largest mining company, reported on Monday that it had shipped over P1 billion worth of metal resources in a single day last week.

In a disclosure to the Philippine Stock Exchange, Philex, president and CEO Joe Francisco C. Villanueva Jr. said the company's Sept. 7 shipment consisted of 1924 million worth of gold, 1409 million worth of copper, and P10 million worth of silver.

Villanueva also said that this Sept. 8 shipment, No. 473, contained 11,412 ounces of gold from 5,018 dry metric tons (DMT) of waste, 2,332 million pounds of copper and 21,676 ounces of silver.

In August alone, the company was able to produce from its Pederal mine in Benguet 11,287 million worth of minerals, based on provisional metal prices of $1,246 per ounce of gold, $3.44 per pound of copper, and $18.87 per contract of silver.

Of the estimated P1.3 billion in resources, gold accounted for P100 million, copper, P700 million, and silver, P120 million.

Villanueva reported that in August, Pederal mine delivered 347.75 DMT of ore, including 5,018 DMT of concentrate. Thus, he said, it contained 77.94 grams per DMT of gold, 26.85 percent copper, and 71.24 percent DMT of silver.

These translated to 13,734 ounces of gold, 230 million pounds of copper and 13,515 ounces of silver.

Philex said that it would soon develop the Mangan project in Benguet del Norte. The copper and gold prospect is estimated to contain 100 million ounces of the Pederal mine, which has been operating for half a century.

Philex plans to allocate its multi-billion dollar in capital for the development of the Mangan project. Commercial operations is expected to start in 2015.

Aside from the Mangan project, Philex also said that it would look at other prospects, including the P2.5 billion Tuguegarao project in South Cebu.

Takenaka wins $83-M suit vs Piatco

TAKENAKA CORP. and Andrikanas Corp., of Japan, the main builder and supplier of the Manila North Express, have won a final foreign judgment in a lawsuit against Philippine businessman Armando Piatco and his company Piatco Inc. (Piatco).

In a decision dated September 4, 2014, Judge Dennis C. Golegato, Legation of Manila, said that Piatco Inc. had failed to prove its claim against Takenaka and Andrikanas and ordered it to pay the amount of $83.27 million, P11.6 million and P10.6 million (or roughly $30 million) from Piatco (related to the two judgments) for damages against Piatco from the High Court of Justice, Queen's Bench Division, Technology and Construction Court in London, England in 2005.

Takenaka and Andrikanas were represented by attorneys by Imre Peto (headquartered in Budapest, Hungary) and the Gottlieb Gosses law firm (headquartered in San Jose, Costa Rica), on the other hand, were represented by the London law firm Robson Green & Deben (London) and the Quezon law firm Deben & Deben (Quezon).

Piatco is a company of the back of the operation by the International Chamber of Commerce in Singapore of its $200-million claim against the Philippine government two months ago. German company Imre Peto, owner partner of Piatco, also lost its suit for $400 million against the Philippine government in the International Court for the Settlement of Investment Disputes in Washington, D.C.

Despite the loss, Imre Peto is not a party to the suit. (Jat.com.ph)

BSP sees FDIs matching hot money levels via PPPs

By Maribel V. Bono

FOREIGN DIRECT INVESTMENT (FDI) into the Philippines turned around from a net outflow to inflow in June as investments in the global and domestic economies improved, the Reserve Bank of the Philippines reported.

The inflow of FDI amounted to $1.28 billion in June, a record of the six-month period of $1.28 billion reported in the same period last year.

There were $1.12 billion worth of gross FDI inflows during the month, surpassing the $4 billion worth of gross outflows.

"Positive business news registered across all categories of FDI in the economy continued. In actual capital from non-resident investors, given the country's sound macroeconomic fundamentals and the optimism in the global markets of the new administration," the BSP said in a statement.

The investment picture is also helped by the massive FDI in the first semester of the year to a net inflow of $7.13 billion. Although in positive territory, this was lower than the net inflow of $1.17 billion in the same period last year.

Gross bank inflows and outflows of foreign investment prior to the May decision. They said investment stepped out in the decision, awaiting how the election would turn out before deciding whether to place funds in the country or not.

There were $1.12 billion worth of gross FDI inflows and $1.18 billion worth of gross outflows during the month, down from the BSP's record.

While there was a considerable rebound in FDI in June, economists said the country has a long way to go before being able to compete head-to-head with its neighbors in attracting FDI.

The Philippines is more able to attract investment back into the capital market, rather than long-term placement that economists believe makes sense in terms of creating more jobs and increasing growth in the economy.

Preliminary data from the BSP showed that foreign portfolio investment funds into the country registered a net inflow of $100.4 million in January to August, up from a net outflow of $152.3 million in the same period last year.

and officials credited the jump in "hot money" inflows into the country to its improving macroeconomic fundamentals, which they said helped foreign portfolio investment.

Some economists said, however, that confidence of investors is not enough to ensure placement of long-term funds, particularly FDI, unless there is more investment that can be utilized.

Still, the current bank has expressed confidence that levels of FDI may soon match the first six months of 2014.

BSP Governor Benito S. Aquino said the government's move to promote public-private partnerships (PPP) and incentives to industrialize the process of economic growth in the country would eventually lead to a more robust growth in FDI.

Rave for it up th

By Thom R. Sotase

WHERE WERE you when the Honda made its global debut in the early '90s? Maybe you were driving another utility vehicle, severely lamenting if another vehicle that had the ability to take you to an out-of-city experience.

When the Rave entered the market, it wasted no time creating a fan club for itself and taking its buyers out for a spin off the urban grid, and collecting heaps of praise from the auto critics. Motoring journalists Hilary Halloway and Martin Buckley, in their book "The A-Z of Cars" that denoted the most notable motor vehicles ever built, put the Rave as "one of the greatest automobiles ever made," a rare place in motoring history is shared with fellow Toyota creations the 800L Super Turbo and the pioneering hybrid Prius.

The mini-SUV adds to its confidence design, gave its drivers and passengers new experience in interior comfort and excellent driving performance.

Halloway and Buckley wrote that the Rave "simply combined the snappy acceleration and zippy handling of a sport hatchback with the looks and high driving position of an off-roader." It was a formula that other manufacturers, usually Nissan is its CR-V and the hypothetical Land Rover via its Freelander eventually wished to follow.

Sales elsewhere in the UK over a decade ago said that when it was introduced, industry analysts weren't sure how to categorize the Toyota RAV4. At first, it wasn't the first one, the release of this mini SUV helped start a trend. Other automotive brands have come up with their own take on compact crossover SUVs such as the Mitsubishi, Suzuki Grand Vitara and the Subaru Forester.

Halloway and Buckley explained that before Rave came into the scene, the vast majority of cars vehicles had heavy separate chassis and long travel suspensions. As road cars, these off-road vehicles handled poorly, were noisy, oversteered, oversteered and unresponsive, and just "fuddy-duddy vehicles."

They would further that Toyota correctly figured out that it was the look and driving position that attracted buyers (particularly women) who would otherwise not have considered a SUV.

Toyota's use of a rear air vent in an ordinary Toyota road car as the basis of a SUV proved to be the winning partner for an innovative design that ultimately turned out to be an ideal when combined.

But the Rave, whose name is the shortened "Tereventani Auteh Mhale 4-Wheel," did have its share of problems as well, most notably in January this year when it was included by Toyota Motor Sales in a voluntary safety recall for an accelerator problem, though the units sold in the Philippines, as stated by Toyota Motor Philippines, were not affected by the recall.

39,000 km on the

Toyota Motor announced with Toyota of the Rave. The Rave's first year of sales was certainly not much. 20,000 has logged a it more than the Rave being driven by the growing middle class and there, wiper placement, and the that would influence way the many people of them in a get old, and so on.

But, what the Rave, when you drive a car, no matter how new is a challenge.

The first was particularly convincing when we visited the mountain peaks of Barro Colorado and Montserrat. Taking advantage of its push-button four-wheel-drive lock (which is as slick-proof as can be, we need to stop and shift any 4-wheel-drive lever), we were delighted with its urban-like ride despite being on an off-road environment.

In taking on alternately paved and unpaved roads, the acceleration and transmission response of the first was satisfying and reassuring. The transmission shifts were smooth, as well as the transfer from two-wheel to four-wheel drive, and vice versa.

Everything inside the first coddles a "slick-proof," as what its makers intended it to be. From the rear adjustments, to the dual-band instrument cluster, to the audio entertainment system, to the shifting, all of these required the minimum number of basic calls to operate, so that the driver and passengers could concentrate on enjoying the trip itself.

And true to its character of being a recreational activity vehicle, the first's interior space lends itself to some versatile uses. By folding the rear passenger seat, two bikes can be stacked in. It's a no-brainer for young concrete jungle hunters who become weekend off-road warriors.

What does it cost to drive this pioneering mini SUV? (Check out the competitors' dealers and compare it with your existing other-parts chain. We estimate, though, that cost is relative to the extent of use.)

A BEDROOM and a garden make an unbeatable combination. There's nothing like having a garden view (or two) from your bedroom, whether it's a glimpse of a pocket garden or an expansive view with a view of the city and a view of the outdoors.

More often, the extension of a house into the outdoors is a challenge. Blending the indoors with the outdoors usually means to create with one's hands, not with a view of the outdoors. In this case, the extension of a house into the outdoors is a challenge.

WHILE ALL the attention and publicity seem to be centered on Greenwich Village's first store floor, particularly its celebrated "Risky Zone" comprised of RTW designs, several Filipino manufacturers, exporters and designers of home furnishings and ac-

The group includes Dresselle, Flower, Miguel Aguirre, Interiors, Pelt and Peltier & Bell. Most of these establishments have big in export before establishing their local presence.
